

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION FOR

THE NORTHWEST ATLANTIC FISHERIES

Document No. 13

ANNUAL MEETING - JUNE 1954

United Kingdom Research Report for the Year 1953.

By

C.E. Lucas,
Marine Laboratory, Scottish Home Department.

Incidental to the main English programme on the Arcto-Norwegian cod, about 2,000 cod from English trawlers working in the area of Panel 1, near southern Greenland, were measured during the year. From among these fish 250 fin-ray samples were taken for age-determination. None of this material has yet been worked up.

Owing to the circumstances of fishing, there has been no work on fish other than cod within the Commission's area, although work continues on the halibut from East Greenland Waters (very few during 1953). In addition, a note has been published on the market sampling of such halibut, which will be annotated in the bibliography of pertinent papers.
